

The Servants of the Gods

The seas weren't always like this - infested, full of all manner of horrid creatures. They used to be vibrant, full of life - fish, sharks, and more in the depths below.

But now... it's all but rotted away. The once common fish are now scarce, serving as little more than a food source for these... things. Abominations, created by the gods to carry out their revenge.

They were sent for us, and in numbers larger than we could hold off.

Over time, they eventually died out. Well, all except the toughest of them... I suppose you'll have to deal with them? Provided you're still alive, that is...