

The Curse of Withering Death

Legends tell of an ancient curse, bound to the Nether Realm. It is said that this curse would corrupt the very bones of whoever caught it, rendering them a mere husk of what they once were.

Now usually, a mixture of people is what one would expect to see. People from all walks of life, young and old, healthy and dying; succumbing to the curse and withering away.

But, it seems this curse was more.... selective - It would only affect those of the elite guard in training. And these were no ordinary fighters, mind you; they were training to become part of the Moon Queen's elite force.

But - as all things do - this too has fallen into obscurity. Now a mere myth; when it was once feared across the entire land.